11. Order Types

11.1. Trading Platform allows the Client to submit the following Order types:

- 1) Market - direct order placed on the market and executed at first available market price;
- 2) Limit - order is activated and directed to the market when the current Bid or Ask Price reach the price specified in the Order. At the time of placing the Order, the price in the Buy Order is lower than the current Ask Price, analogically the price in the Sell Order is higher than the current Bid Price;
- 3) Stop - order is activated and directed to the market when the current Bid or Ask Price reach the price specified in the Order. At the time of placing the Order, the price in the Buy Order is higher than the current Ask price, analogically the price in the Sell Order is lower than the current Bid Price;
- 4) Stop Loss - a condition that triggers a Closing Order when the current Bid or Ask Price reach the level specified in the Order. This order is placed to reduce losses from an Open Position.
- 5) Take Profit - a condition that triggers the Closing Order for an Open Position to book a financial result. Condition is met when current Price reach a level set by the Customer.
- 6) Trailing Stop - a mechanism that automatically changes the price of a Stop Loss order taking into account current Bid and Ask Prices. The parameter specifies the difference between the current Bid and Ask Prices and the Stop Loss order level, including limitations resulting from the Contract Specification Document;

11.2. When submitting Orders mentioned above in pt. 12.1.2-12.1.6, Client determines price at which the Order is activated. Orders are filled at prices that, due to market volatility, may differ from the prices at which Order has been activated. Execution may occur at less favorable rate than that specified in the Order. Customer bears the risk of execution of Order at less favorable price than indicated in the Order, in particular a Stop Loss Order may not provide assumed limitation of loss on the Open Position. Execution of the Order at a more favorable rate than specified in the Order is the Client's benefit.

12. Decline of Client's Orders

12.1 Without prejudice, the Company may refuse to accept an Order in any of the following cases:

- 1) A Force Majeure Event has occurred,
- 2) Company is unable to provide quote for the Financial Instruments due to lack of information from the Liquidity Provider,

- 3) Where the Order volume exceeds the maximum value specified in the Contract Specification Document for a given instrument,
- 4) Lack of sufficient funds for a Margin purpose on Clients Trading Account,
- 5) In an Event of Default of the Client,
- 6) The Company has sent a notice of Termination of the Agreement to the Client.
- 7) In other situations, resulting from the provisions of the Law and the provisions of the Agreement.

12.2. The Company shall immediately inform the Client by electronic means about any material circumstances preventing the proper execution of the Order submitted by the Client.

13. Margin Call, Stop Out

13.1. The Company determines and discloses to its Clients an Announcement about the warning levels (Margin Call) and minimum level (Stop Out).

13.2. If, as a result of the current market situation, the value of the Client's Trading Account decreases below the Margin Call level, the Company informs the Client about the occurrence by a message transmitted via Trading Platform.

13.3. If the value of the Account falls below the minimum value (Stop Out) calculated from required Margin, the Company has the indisputable right to automatically, without having to obtain Client's consent, cancel active orders and close Open Positions. Open position closure is made by placing by the Company, on behalf of the Client, closing order with Market type. Open Positions are closed according to FIFO (First In, First Out) rule until the Account value exceeds the calculated level of Stop Out.

13.4. The Company may change the level of the required margin by disclosing the information to the Clients. In the event of a change in the margin levels, the Client who has an Open Position which will be affected with the change will be informed by telephone, by e-mail or via Client CRM Portal within no less than 7 days before the change, subject to 14.5.

13.5. The Company may change the level of the required margin immediately, after prior notification to the Clients having Open Positions, in case of Force Majeure; and in cases where the Company has a reasonable expectation that exceptional market price fluctuations may occur, the significant reduction of liquidity on the market of the underlying instrument or other extraordinary market events of the underlying market. The Company shall notify Client's about the change by telephone, by e-mail or via Client CRM Portal.
